EXPERIMENTS with pure nickel and aluminum as substitutes for the present nickel pieces and one and two cent bronze pieces will be made at the mints during September or October. A resolution was passed by the house of representatives authorizing such experiments. There is some doubt whether the actual adoption of a new metal for the minor coins will be recommended, even if the experiments prove successful. The objection to a change in any form of coins or notes is the disposition of the public to refuse the old forms and insist upon having the new.

Tue other night, at Indianapolis Ind., Prof. Boone, a hypnotist, put J. J.
